

Hart-to-Hart Farm is a small working organic dairy farm nestled in the rolling hills of Albion, Maine. It is owned and operated by Doug and Linda Hartkopf and their three children.

Linda Hartkopf directs the summer program. She holds a Master's in Environmental Education and Bachelor's in Animal Science with a concentration in dairy; and has farmed with her husband for many years. She is an avid supporter of agriculture through school programs and tours and works with a variety of state organizations.

Campers will experience a rich program as Linda incorporates her educational teachings into her current programs. The result is a unique and rewarding experience for each camper. Her enthusiasm and wealth of knowledge will provide your child with an incredible camp experience.

Farm Day Camp 2017

A Summer Experience Not to Be Missed
 By Children Ages 5-13
 In Albion, Maine

Down on the Farm

Campers ages 5 - 12 years of age will have the opportunity to explore our farm's animals, gardens and fields and discover how they weave together to create the farming cycle. Each day campers build a stronger connection to the farm and the origins of their food and clothing.

Campers begin each day with feeding and caring for the farm animals and their own "adopted" animal. Throughout the day campers participate in a variety of activities, games and crafts. The week culminates as families join campers for a parade of the adopted animals which they have worked with during the week. Returning campers will find new adventures awaiting them.

*One week reserved for campers ages 5-6 years of age.
